THE EVIDENCE BEGINS

The Powers Trial Starts at Georgetown.

Several Witnesses Testify Materially to the Same as Heretofore.

ARGUMENTS IN JURY CASE

THE POWERS TRIAL.

Georgetown, Ky., August 8.—In the third trial of former Secretary of State Caleb Powers for complicity in the Goebel murder, the defense entered a motion, supported by affidavits, to discharge the entire venire that was summoned from Bourbon county. It was charged that the men were selected by partisan agents, who pointed out to the deputies those wanted, and that other discrimination was shown.

A motion was also filed objecting to the panel on the same grounds, and adding that the defense had exhausted its fifteen peremptory challenges, and that the jury was still partisan. Both motions were overruled.

A special plea of pardon was then entered, the argument being the same as in the plea in abatement that the pardon issued by W. S. Taylor, when he was governor, to Powers was valid.

Yesterday afternoon the commonwealth began introducing the evidence in the trial. Physicians gave repetition of evidence in former trials as did Civil Engineer Woodson, who was on the stand for 50 minutes, identifying the chairs of state buildings and grounds.

Jack Thompson, a Frankfort policeman, saw Senator Goebel fall, and helped carry him to Dr. Humes' office. Ten days later he found the bullet in the hackberry tree by sighting with a cane in the direction the bullet passed through the murdered man's body.

Ed Porter Thompson, Jr., said he was on Lewis street, and heard the shots and saw Goebel fall. The first shot was clear, the other muffled.

THE JETT-WHITE CASE.

Cynthiana, Ky., August 8.—After eleven days consumed in taking testimony in the second trial of the commonwealth of Kentucky against Curtis Jett and Thomas White, charged with the assassination of James B. Marcum on May 4 last, both sides rested its case late yesterday. Arguments began today.

Eight arguments will be made, four on each side. Messrs. J. I. Hanton, W. T. Lafferty, B. B. Golden and James D. Black will speak for the defense, and Thomas Marcum, brother of the dead man, and a criminal lawyer of note from Mississippi, I. T. and County Attorney J. Stanley Webster, Colonel A. F. Hyrd and Commonwealth's Attorney Fryer will address the jury for the prosecution.

Judge James Hargis was placed on the stand yesterday afternoon to rebut evidence introduced against him by the prosecution, whose witness, C. H. Holin, testified to seeing Hargis in his private office on the Sunday before the killing, talking to some men. The prosecution placed Denny H. Goode, a newspaper correspondent, on the stand. Mr. Goode testified that he was in Jackson the day after the killing of Marcum, and was in a room with Hargis and Ewen alone, and Ewen had stated to Hargis then that he did not know who killed Marcum. Goode stated that Ewen had repudiated this statement to him the next day after the above incident, but requested that it not be published, as he feared for his life.

M. O. Bailey, the foreman of the grand jury which indicted Jett and White, testified as to Ewen's good moral character and reputation for truthfulness. His testimony contradicts Callahan as to his reading the signed statement before the grand jury, and the signed statement was introduced and read to the jury. In some material facts it was contradictory to the evidence of Sheriff Callahan.

Dr. Edward Young of this city, has gone to Massie to form a partnership with Dr. L. S. Graham, to practice medicine.

NEW MAIL CARRIERS

A Number Were Appointed Today For Graves County

Record-Breaking Run to the Pacific Coast Was Made by Mr. H.

P. Lowe.

THEIR TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

RURAL CARRIERS FOR GRAVES

Washington, Aug. 8.—The following rural carriers and substitute were appointed today: At Mayfield, Ky., Jas. F. Gary, John L. Workman, Novice Harper, John W. Smith, Walter Meadows, Jesse W. Gough, Albert Gary, Stephen Austin, carriers; James A. Gary, Ben Workman, Edwin T. Harper, Walter Cosbey, Karl Meadows, Maude A. Moses, Arthur O. Hughes, Martha J. Austin, substitutes; service to begin September 1.

QUICKEST TIME ON RECORD.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—At 1:06 o'clock yesterday afternoon the special train bearing Henry P. Lowe, chief engineer of the United States Steel Corporation, drew into LaGrande station, having completed a run from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, a distance of more than 3,200 miles, in the fastest time on record. Mr. Lowe left New York on Tuesday, August 4, at 2:45 p. m. and arrived in Los Angeles 73 hours and 21 minutes later, one hour and 21 minutes more than three days of actual running time, which includes three hours gained running from east to west.

The record-breaking run just finished by Mr. Lowe was undertaken to gain the bedside of his 11 year old daughter, who was dying in Los Angeles. The child died early Thursday morning, but Mr. Lowe was not advised of her death until well on his way. As the schedule had been prepared by the railroad the trip was continued as originally planned except that the trip was made in ten hours less time than scheduled from Chicago to Los Angeles.

THE BARON FOR-

MALLY RECEIVED.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 8.—Sagamore Hill, President Roosevelt's country home, was the scene yesterday of an interesting ceremony. Baron Speck Von Sternberg, who has been minister plenipotentiary of Germany to the United States since Ambassador Von Holleben returned to Europe, and who recently on the retirement of Mr. Von Holleben was elevated to the rank of ambassador, presented to the president his credentials as ambassador and was received formally in his new diplomatic rank by President Roosevelt.

DEATH AT ELKTON.

Elkton, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Judge Willis L. Reeves died last night from a complication after a long illness.

PRIVATE PROPERTY.

PLACARDS PLACED NEAR FIFTH AND BROADWAY TODAY.

The several perennial puddles of water and slime near Fifth and Broadway, along the Palmer house sidewalk in the street, were adorned today by a placard, "No Fishing Allowed—Private." The card attracted considerable attention and amusement, and should induce the city to keep the place clean.

POLICE COURT.

Judge Sanders held no police court today on account of the police, who are witnesses in many cases, being busy looking after the 8th of August crowds to attend court.

Yesterday Judge Sanders announced that he would continue court over until Monday unless some one wanted a trial. There were but two cases before him and both were continued. Last night no arrests being made the docket remained blank this morning.

TAYLOR GAVE BOND.

Jim Taylor, who is waiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of highway robbery, gave bond this afternoon, his father becoming surety.

THE TURKISH TROOPS ROUTED BULGARIANS

Salonica, August 8.—Four battalions of Turkish troops, supported by artillery, yesterday morning routed a body of 1,700 Bulgarians near Sorovich.

A band of 300 insurgents has appeared near the railway bridge over the river Vardar two hours distant from this city. The great fodder depots at Samanli, Aytehan de Harmanli have been burned.

CATEGORICAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Constantinople, August 8.—The porte has sent categorical instructions to the valls of the American provinces of Asia Minor, holding them personally responsible for any Kurdish excesses and ordering vigorous measures to be taken to prevent fighting. The British vice consul at Irtlis has been ordered to proceed to Mush, eighty miles south of Erzerum, where the Armenian massacres by the Kurds occurred in 1894, to investigate the situation there.

Acoulneur dispatch from Erzerum received here this morning says the excitement in that district is quieting down, but that the fall of Erzerum reports that 600 armed Huitchakists from Russian territory have compelled the Armenians in the villages of Sassun Vilayet, also the scene of Armenian massacres in 1894, to take refuge in the mountains. The vali has sent four battalions of troops against the Huitchakists who escaped to the mountains. The porte has communicated this information to the Russian embassy calling attention to the fact that the bands came here from Russian territory.

NOT VERY SERIOUS.

London, August 8.—Confidential official reports received at the foreign office regarding Macedonia have caused the British government to adopt the view that the situation is not very serious for the moment although sufficiently so to warrant the taking of precautions. The porte is looked to re-establish order on its own territory and the British officials do not believe that Turkey contemplates an attack on Bulgaria in view of the known attitude of the powers, especially Russia and Austria.

DEMOCRATS GIVE LOVE IT THE THROW-DOWN

The Democratic county committee held a meeting this afternoon at the city hall for the purpose of considering a number of things, principal among which was the Taylor-Lovett contest for the Democratic nomination for commonwealth's attorney in this district.

A resolution was passed before the committee adjourned endorsing the action of Chairman C. W. Morrison, of the McCracken county committee, as a member of the judicial committee, and in voting to declare the primary off. It also, in view of frauds in the primary, repudiated Attorney John G. Lovett, of Benton, as the Democratic nominee, and in the resolution is provision for a new primary to select a Democratic nominee for prosecuting attorney.

The names from which to select the Democratic member of the McCracken county election board are as follows: Richard Holland, Waddy Lang, Thomas Crice, R. G. Terrell and J. C. Flournoy.

Mr. J. H. Derrington was elected a committeeman at Florence Station, in place of Dr. Hass, who has moved to Paducah.

GETS LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

INSPECTOR HOLMES GOES HOME —BUILDING NEWS.

Inspector Julius C. Holmes, who was sent here by the government to supervise the government building addition, was today granted a leave of absence by the department, and leaves for his home in Charlestown, West Va., on a vacation. As his stay is not likely to be extended, no inspector has been sent here in his place.

Work is progressing slowly on the various buildings and improvements throughout the city, but there will be quite a rush, especially when cooler weather arrives, and work will have to be pushed to be finished by winter. Mr. H. A. Patter has let the contract to Mr. George Ross for two frame dwellings at Third and Tennessee streets, to cost about $800 each.

Contractor James Rouse, of this city, has just completed a handsome residence for Mr. T. E. Butler at Smithland.

TO CARRY THE MAILS

Government Inspector Goes Over New Cairo Division.

Mails Will be Carried Over New Road —A Wreck Prevented at Fulton.

OTHER LATE RAILROAD NOTES

Special Route Inspector Johnson of the Sixth railway mail division arrived last evening from Chicago for the purpose of inspecting the new Cairo division of the Illinois Central.

One of the first things to be done upon opening a new road is to establish a railway mail service on it. At present there are four or five post-offices along the line, Heath, Maxon's, Woodville and Barlow, and as there are quite a number of towns along the route that are large enough it is probable that postoffices will be established there at once.

Inspector Johnson will have to go over the division on an engine, stop at every station and investigate the post-office facilities if there are any, and where there are postoffices interview the postmasters and some of the inhabitants and, in short, to get up all information that will be of service to the postoffice department in establishing a mail division on the new road and distributing the mail.

Inspector Johnson will be sent out on an engine to make the trip today and it is probable that the mail service on the new road will begin as soon as the government can arrange for it.

Yesterday's Fulton Leader gives the following account of how fast the train which passed through Paducah for Memphis, was saved in the yards there:

Jim Morris, a young Fulton boy who is connected with the Illinois Central railroad here, prevented a probable serious wreck last night between two fast passenger trains No. 8 from Memphis and No. 1 from Louisville are due here about the same time. The Louisville train goes down the track south to Walnut street crossing at Lake street and backs up to the depot. Last night they both arrived at the same time and were both running at a full speed. Morris saw that a collision would occur if one of the trains was not flagged. He had no lantern and could find no one with a lantern and as the Memphis train was coming in he jerked a switch light from a switch and ran down the track near the Tennessee crossing and flagged No. 8, thus preventing a serious wreck.

Fireman W. J. Kough, who runs on the Louisville division of the I. C., was injured yesterday afternoon at Scottsburg by being struck by a mail crane. Kough was leaning out of his window when the crane struck. His nose was broken and he was bruised and cut about the face. He is now at the railroad hospital here under treatment.

Metropolis, Ill., is growing rapidly, and the railroad business for the past year, according to the official figures, showed an increase of $11,000 in freight business, and one of $500 in passenger business. The total freight business was $65,800, and the passenger $12,500.

The Roundway company, composed of officials of the Illinois Central railroad, yesterday purchased the timber of 10,700 acres of land near Mattson, Coahoma county, Miss., where a factory for making wheels will be established.

Mr. Finis Fields, foreman of the local I. C. wrecking crew, who is seriously ill of typhoid fever, is reported no better today. He is in a precarious condition and no one is permitted to his room, so serious is his condition.

Illinois Central stock is this month quoted to officials and employees at $130.25.

Steamboat boiler and hull inspectors O. A. Stockham and G. M. Green, of Nashville, were in the city today.

NEW SCHOOL RULES

Preparations Being Made for Several Important Ones.

No More Inexperienced Teachers to Be Elected if New Rule Prevails in Board.

OTHER PROPOSED RULES

The board of education will probably by its next meeting, in September, have a new set of rules to pass on. At present Secretary Arch Sutherland, assisted by suggestions from other members is preparing a revision of the rules. A great many of the printed rules have been repealed, while new rules have been adopted but not printed, and it is a difficult task to find all of them.

One of the principal rules to be enacted in the new lot, according to a prominent member of the board this morning, is one prohibiting the election as teachers, newly of graduated pupils of the schools.

"This rule," said the member, "will specify that no persons except a teacher of experience or one who has graduated from a normal school will be eligible for places as teachers. Understand me, there is no objection to any of our present teachers, but it is simply a rule to apply in future. The custom of electing pupils just out of school to positions as teachers is unjust to the public. They cannot possibly have the necessary experience to give the best possible service or even satisfactory results in some cases, and under the new rule will have to have the experience before they can be elected. Paducah is too large and there is too much responsibility in educating the young, to justify these experiments of placing mere children in as teachers because they happen to be graduates of the home schools, or whose relatives have a pull with the board.

"Another rule" said the trustee, "will be one requiring the superintendent of the schools to devote his entire time to the schools. He cannot do anything else under the new rule, no matter whether it interferes with his school work or not.

"He will be required to do the school work exclusively and let everything else go."

The new rules will probably be compiled and ready for adoption and publication by the first Tuesday in September which is the regular meeting night of the board. There will be a number of new ones not heretofore mentioned.

LABOR NOTES

Extensive Preparations for Labor Day Celebration

Clerks Preparing to Maintain a Business Agent.

Labor day is less than a month away and all the local unions are preparing for the biggest celebration in the history of the place. The white people will have their celebration at La Belle park and the colored people at Rowlandtown.

Mr. R. G. Arnold, the watchmaker who died at his home on lower Court street Thursday, was an old time union man and knew personally some of the most prominent labor leaders in the country. He had also been editor of a number of labor papers in his time, and leaves besides a wife six children, none of the latter living here.

NEW SCHOOLS FINISHED.

A new school house has been finished at Florence station and is one of the neatest in the county. The school at Sunny Slope, the adjoining district, is perhaps the best school in the county and is now nearly finished.

Miss Bess Harrison, of Maudlin, Mo., went to Union City today after a visit to the Misses Puryear.

LOST ON A DECISION.

Hopkinsville, Aug. 8—Paducah stacked up against her old Jonah yesterday afternoon again and lost, as usual. There seems to be no use in the Indians trying to beat Hopkinsville. Yesterday it was a close game up to the fifth inning, when there were three men on bases and a liner was hit out past Benke on first base. Many thought it was a foul, but the umpire called it fair and three runs were scored. Paducah could do nothing after that.

COULDN'T BEAT BEN BOYD.

Stung with repeated defeats by the Paducah colored ball club, the dusky sports of St. Louis, who have sought in vain the scalp of Ben Boyd's aggregation arrived again yesterday. They had searched high and low for crack ball players and got all they could find in the drag net, but were still unable to beat the Paducah darkies. In the presence of a fairly large crowd the Paducah club yesterday afternoon defeated the visitors by a score of 9 to 3. They play again today.

BOLIN GETS RELEASE.

A letter was received from M. J. Finn, manager of the Little Rock baseball team, from Shreveport, La., last night addressed to Jacob Zimbro, Jr., saying that the letter from Henderson addressed to Manager Finn at Little Rock had been forwarded to Shreveport. He further stated that he would mail check at once for Bolin's release, and also stated that Bolin had seen his (Zimbro's) letter written to Mr. Finn giving full explanation in regard to the Bolin matter and that he was satisfied. As the matter now stands, Bolin's back salary, $96, which was held to keep him from jumping, will be paid by Zimbro and the Henderson management will receive $250 from Little Rock for Bolin's release. Immediately upon receipt of the check Mr. Zimbro will notify Mr. Farrell, secretary of the National association of Baseball leagues that he has cancelled Bolin's time and sold him to Little Rock, which will put Bolin again in good standing.—Henderson Gleaner.

HENDERSON OFFICERS ELECTED

The Henderson Baseball association held a meeting and elected officers which resulted as follows: S. C. Ray, president; Huber Johnson, treasurer; Jacob Zimbro, Jr., secretary. Every effort will be made to get the team on top again, over $1.00 worth of stock has been sold, but it will be necessary to sell $150 more to carry out the season. The team in the league now has a good standing and will play tomorrow at Union depot up to 7 p. m.

STORK TIME

to most women is a term of anxiety, serious thought and sweet anticipation. With the cessation of pain necessary to childbirth, there comes calm nerves, sleep and recuperation.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

does diminish the pain accompanying maternity. With its aid mothers can do bring healthy, sweet dispositioned and ideal babies into the world.

Morning sickness, sore breasts and excruciating pains caused by the gradually expanding organs, are relieved by this penetrating and relaxing liniment.

Among the manifold aids to childbirth Mother's Friend has grown in popularity and gained a prestige among rich women as well as poor; it is found and welcomed in the mansion as well as in the cabin.

By lessening the mother's sagging of mind and diminishing pain a beautiful influence is wrought upon the child, and instead of peevish, ill-tempered and sickly ferns you have healthy, laughing humanity, remaining a blessing ever to you and its country. A WAGON WAS TURNED OVER AT 12TH AND BROADWAY.

A Seek bakery horse this morning got unruly and turned the wagon over at 12th and Broadway with Driver Worth inside. The vehicle had been stopped while Worth prepared to fill the order and the horse began to turn around in the street. The front wheels of the wagon were brought around parallel with the bed of the wagon and turned it over in the gutter. Worth was bruised slightly about the head but is not seriously injured. The wagon was damaged on top and the horse was pinioned down in the gutter for some time. Bread was the only source of loss, a number of loaves of bread and many dozen cakes being spilled out on the ground.

MURRAY COURT

VERY LITTLE HAS BEEN DONE THIS WEEK.

There has been little done in Calloway circuit court this week, but beginning with Monday the most important case on the docket will come up for trial.

The Gatlin Insurance police case and the Holland murder trial are both set for Monday. The insurance case was set for Thursday but on account of the senatorial convention at Cerulean springs this week was postponed. The Holland murder case will come up first probably and much interest is manifested not only in Calloway county but in McCracken as Holland is well known here.

WANTS LONGER TERM

Application Filed by County Supt. Ragsdale.

Wants Two Months Longer Term and to Vote Fifteen Cent Tax for It.

Judge R. T. Lightfoot, in county court, will Monday consider an application filed by County Superintendent Ragsdale late yesterday afternoon for a vote at the November election extending the county school term to seven months, and on voting an extra tax of 15 cents on the $100 with which to do it.

Superintendent Ragsdale has been contemplating this more some time, as mentioned in The Sun several weeks ago, and filed with his application a petition signed by a large majority of the school patrons of the county. The county school term is not five months a year and it is desired to make it seven. It is believed that the additional 15 cents will enable the county to make the desired extension.

GEN MILES RETIRES.

TODAY HE LEFT THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

Washington, August 8—The retirement from active service of Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles was announced at the war department this morning. General Miles has a farewell address to the army.

General Miles will be succeeded in rank and duties by Major S. B. M. Young, who will be promoted to be lieutenant general, and will at the same time be assigned to the command of the army.

Under the staff bill, which became a law at the last session of congress, the general staff will come into legal existence August 15. Upon that date the office of the general in command of the army will cease, and in its place there will be a chief of staff. Secretary Root has announced the selection of General Young to be the first chief of staff, so that he will have the honor of serving as the last general commanding the army and the first chief of staff.

FIGHTING THE TRUST

HENDERSON MAN HAS JUST RETURNED FROM ENGLAND.

Mr. Edward A. Jones, a tobacco dealer of Henderson, has just returned from a trip to England, and while there had opportunity to judge of conditions prevailing in the trade. He states that the trade, as far as it relates to the Western tobacco raising section of Kentucky, is in an unsettled condition, the Imperial Tobacco company, with the aid of the American Tobacco company, having practically taken away from them one-half of their trade and made the position of the other half something more than hazardous. Mr. Jones thinks that the rehandlors throughout the districts which have heretofore supplied the British export trade must stand or fall together.

PATRIOT EMMET

BELIEVED THAT THE BODY HAS BEEN REMOVED.

Dublin, August 8—At the instigation of Dr. Robert Emmet of New York, an examination was made yesterday of the grave, supposed to be that of the patriot Emmet. A skeleton was found, said to be that of a man 6 feet high, whereas Emmet was only 5 feet 7 inches. A curious circumstance in connection with the examination was that the skull, instead of being found lying prone attached to the trunk, was found lying in an upright position which, as Emmet was beheaded, may strengthen the theory that the remains were his. But the matter is still regarded as doubtful.

The Week In Society.

AUGUST.

The air is filled with soft, sweet odors and scents
That trails and winds through every shrub and tree,
And kisses with a clinging touch the leaf.
As it were hymning praises to the ground,
For its full offering of fruits new found;
The farm boy's halloo echoes far and free
Across the wood his heart's wild melody;
The lark's high song, entwined to all around,
Keeps the grand orchestra of bird and tree
And flowers and streams, the breezes thin and rare,
Sway into rhythm, joining the unstruck
Of earth and sky; the very silence there
Awaken, and throbs divinest harmony,
And all the world is music every where!
—Eugenia Parham, Mayfield, Ky., in Louisville Times.

AUGUST DAYS.

The heat and inertia of August days have taken possession of Paducah society in earnest and aside from several informal entertainments at country homes there has been "nothing doing" for the past week. Still the time is not without its charm, and the drowsy contentment of the day to the leisure class, is followed by informal calling, and the broad verandas of southern homes are scenes of pleasure during the summer evenings, in the houses not closed for the season. The soda fountains show busy activity, between 8 and 10, and Paducah young people meet their friends and exchange the gossip of the day at these popular resorts. Broadway is enlivened by two light summer gowns of the belles and the fresh negliges of the beaux between these hours and gay enjoyment reigns supreme.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Miss Lillian Gregory entertained with a dance Monday evening at her home Rustie Hall in Gregory Place, in honor of Miss Aline Baker of St. Louis and Mr. Gregory Hicks of Macon, Ga. Dainty light refreshments were served and the entertainment was one of the most pleasant of the summer's diversions. The guests were: Misses Aline Baker, Lillian Holston, Katherine Quigley, Heral Alcott, Eloise Bradshaw, Frances Wallace, Georgia Wire, Mayfield; Margaret Waller, Carrie Trueheart, Louisville; Rosebud Holston, Katherine Powell, Messrs. James Langstaff, Vaughan Dabney, Ed Hawkins, Clay Kidd, Sam Hughes, Willie Rody, Vernon Smith, Lorenzo Emery, George Thompson, Robert Wallace, John Orme, James Wheeler, Charlie Trueheart, Louisville; Philo Abbott, George Ponge, Zack Hayes, Gregory Hicks, Macon, Ga.; Mrs. W. F. Bradshaw and Dr. and Mrs. Victor Voris.

Misses Carrie, Lorena and Lillian Beyer entertained some of their young friends Thursday evening at the home of their grandfather, Mr. George Rock, Monroe and Fifth streets. The evening was spent in various games and delightful refreshments were served. The guests were: Misses Eloise Beyer, Lottie Briggs, Ethel Seamon, Margie Matmon, Neoma Harrell, Elizabeth Williamson, Irene Potter, Florence Mammen, Mary Sloan, Memphis; Maggie Frederick, Rosalee Potter, Ruth Pickering, of Princeton; Flossie Craig, Irene Card, Eileen Rehkopf, Mary Linn, Saddle Cabell, Elinor Cabell; Masters William Wilhelm, Leslie Warren, William Baine, Harry List, Felix St. John, Henry Harrell, Ike Hale, Brooks Holliday, George Beyer, Sam Winstead, Freddie Wahl, Jim Shelton, Frankie Wahl, George Shelton, Cullion Tate, Oscar Starks.

Mr. Horace F. English gave a hay ride Thursday evening. The party went to Rowlandtown and when they returned were served with refreshments at the Greek Kandy Kitchen. Those who went were: Misses Mary Night, Arlie Dublin, Jessie Kyle, Mate Pearson, Ruby Gleason, Maud Wade, Lillian Kettler, Flora Reeder, Ada Ross, Willie Belle Wilkerson, Minnie Yancey, Messrs. Horace English, Owen Grubbs, Claud English, John Wade, Leslie Arnold, Tim Mobley, Louis Brooks, Horace Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Braine.

The Merry-makers' club was entertained at cards Wednesday evening by Miss Gertrude Griffin at her home on West Broadway. The gentleman's prize was won by Mr. Will Lydon and the lady's prize by Miss Clara Helanger. The guests were: Messrs. Oscar Greif, Dennis Halpin, Will Lydon, Joe Roth, Joe Bergdoll, Charles Carney, Misses Eda Bergdoll, Emma Bergdoll, Clara Helanger, Marie Roth, Maggie Lydon, Gertrude Griffin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leech tendered their daughter, Miss Lillian, a party on Wednesday evening in honor of her guests, Misses Roberts of Mayfield, and Winstead of Paducah; and Messrs. Hollifield and Roberts of Mayfield. The evening was pleasantly spent and was greatly enjoyed. —Wingo Outlook.

The Columbia club was entertained Tuesday evening by Miss Katie Schmidt at her home on the Mayfield road with a lawn party. The lawn was prettily decorated in Japanese lanterns and bunting, red, white and blue being effectively used. A large number of guests were present.

Mr. S. A. Fowler entertained with an informal dance at "Edgewood" his country home on the Broadway road, Thursday evening. Watermelon and lemonade were served as refreshments, and it was a delightful warm weather entertainment. About 75 guests were in attendance.

Mrs. Cook Husbands entertained the lady managers of the Home of the Friendless Tuesday afternoon at her country home the "Cabbage Patch" in Arcadia. Delightful refreshments were served, and the entertainment proved a pleasing one.

Miss Lena Vandervelt entertained with a lawn party Thursday evening at her home on Hickmon street in honor of Miss Lizzie Brenton, of Brookport, Ill.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church gave an ice cream supper at "The Inn" on North Seventh street Tuesday evening.

SHAPELY GIRLS.

NEW YORK MANAGERS REPORT AN INADEQUATE SUPPLY THIS SEASON.

New York, August 8.—The Shubert brothers, with two New York theaters and many more in the state and two score companies going on the road, are in a quandary for chorus girls. The supply of girls in New York is used up. Every theater and hall in the city is filled from morning till night with companies rehearsing.

Manager Sam Shubert said: "We need 1,200 chorus girls and can get perhaps 100 in New York."

"The majority of these come from out of town, and fact the prettiest and shapeliest of the chorus today are from other cities. We find we can do nothing with the local agencies. They promise much, but fulfill little. In consequence of these facts we have decided to start our own agencies in the cities where pretty girls desirous of going on the stage may best be secured. These will include Louisville, Wheeling, Pittsburg, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit. The agencies will be merely temporary. We tried this scheme last year with great success except in Chicago, surprising as it may seem."

SUNDAY SODA WATER.

(Wilkesburg, Pa., telegram to the Philadelphia Record.)

The crusade against the sale of soda water in drug stores on Sunday in this borough under the old blue laws took a peculiar turn early this morning.

Yesterday the druggists had representatives at every church where paid singers are employed.

A justice of the peace kept his office open and at twenty seconds after 12 this morning suits were filed against all of the singers who appeared yesterday. All were arrested today and gave bail for their appearance.

Yesterday the druggists and confectioners defied the burges and kept their stores open as usual for the sale of soda water and other soft drinks. Today they were arrested as usual and paid their fines. There is every indication of a very bitter fight.

Mrs. Arthur Cole returned from Waterloo Valley this morning.

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

Col. Henry Waterson, from the

Hoffman house in New York, gives out the interesting information that the Democrats should nominate for president a man "who can carry the

solid South, Maryland, West Virginia,

New York, New Jersey and Connecticut." Share, Mike, but why refrain from naming the Democratic statesman who can perform the titanic feat?

Perhaps no one knows better than

Col. Waterson that no such Democrat is in existence today, or will be in existence for a long time to come, if ever.

Commenting on the Democratic outlook, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of yesterday says:

"It will be noticed that Democratic troubles have multiplied within the last year. By this time in 1901 a Democratic ticket must be in the field,

but no one can guess how it will be made up or what the platform will be.

No available issue is in sight. At the Democratic national convention of 1900 a dramatic demonstration was witnessed on the subject of imperial-

ism. Where is that issue now? It is never anything but a shadow,

and the people have turned away from completely. A tariff for revenue is not technically upheld by the party

when the Democratic party convenes of the government

financed from pass-

A tariff

times followed in its trail. The people are abundantly well satisfied with the Dingley tariff.

"Within twelve months it has become plainer than ever that there can be no reconciliation between the Cleveland and Bryan elements of the party. The reorganizers may control the next convention, but they will never be able to placate the Bryan

Democrats, whose support, in that case, will be 'very still.' Judge Parker disappointed the Georgians on his recent visit. Of course he would get

Georgia's electoral vote if nominated,

but the Southerners he met on his journey regard him as a frosty sort of personality. Gorman is a smooth machine politician. The people of the United States have no confidence in him, nor has Maryland, outside of his own political circle. Democratic plans for 1904 are chaotic. In no respect can results be foreseen or estimated. Democratic weather has thickened since last year, and that is all that can be said as to the party

outlook."

MR. CARNEGIE'S EXPERIMENT.

Mr. Carnegie has departed from his time-honored custom of building public libraries long enough to embark in an experiment in his native country.

He has given Dunfermline, his home town, $2,500,000 with which to experiment with a view to ascertaining

by what method a rich man can best

benefit the masses in the distribution of his money. In his own words:

"It is an experiment, the object of which is to attempt to introduce into the monotonous lives of the toiling masses of Dunfermline more of sweetness and light; to give them, especially the young, some charm, some elavuating conditions of life which their residence elsewhere would have denied, so that a child in his native town will feel, however far he may have roamed, that simply by virtue of being such his life has been made happier and better."

It is to be hoped that Mr. Carnegie, before his entire fortune is given away, will find the best use to which his benefactions can be put. He has given away millions and millions, and it is extremely doubtful if the purposes for which his money has been used are the best for the struggling masses, for whose use and benefit principally his gifts have been intended. It seems to be the general impression that in this day of cheap books and voluminous newspapers many things would be greater benefits to the masses than public libraries.

Gen. Miles today retires as lieutenant general of the army. Some of his friends, from press dispatches, are expressed over the fact that the war department is going to appoint Major S.

B. M. Young lieutenant general and commander of the army until August

15, when under the new law the office of general in command of the army

will cease and that of chief of staff

take its place. Just why the bestowal of this temporary honor should offend Gen. Miles may be plain, but the justification of his displeasure is not. It certainly should not concern him, and if he feels humiliated because it happens to be somebody he does not like, he should remember that the war department owes his feelings very little, as he has never hesi-tated to embrace the administration or war department at any time he felt like it, and has repeatedly and with out any apparent necessity sought to humiliate his superiors and disrupt the army. Gen. Miles has made a gallant and courageous officer, but when he leaves the army one of its principal disturbing elements will be eliminated.

They are having a sensational investigation in Georgia resulting from the claim that the legislature has been unduly influenced by agents for corporations. One legislator claims he was offered $500 by a lobbyist to vote against the child labor bill, and others

testified that they had been "approached," while it developed that quite a bunch of them were made-drunk just before a vote was taken on one measure. The Goodwillers' Association of Missouri should take out an injunction against their counterparts

in Georgia for enting rates to $500

and a plain drunk.

Red Men Have Invited Twenty-one Representatives Here.

Unable to Make a Deal with Any of the Companies Considered Heretofore.

MEETING HERE AUGUST 14

The Red Men's Amusement association, which for the past two or three weeks has been expecting to make a contract for carnival attractions for the fall festival, has been unable to make a deal with any of the five or six under consideration, and has declared off all negotiations with them.

It is reported that owing to the fact that the companies find it easy to hook time in the fall and some of them will be ready to close about that time, they have become very independent and were not willing to make the association here what was deemed a fair and satisfactory proposition. It was expected that the contract for the attractions would be let a week or so ago, but it was not for the reason mentioned above.

Secretary J. J. Freunlich has accordingly written the representatives of 21 other different carnivals associations for rates and has invited representatives of these companies who desire to do so to meet the association here next Friday, August 14. If possible a contract will then be made. The association will experience no trouble in getting attractions for the carnival but desires to get the best possible terms.

The original time set for the carnival is the week of September 21 but the indications are that the festival will now have to be held a week or two later. More can be told about it when the representatives meet here next Friday, however.

Theatrical Notes.

Nothing has been heard from the Seward company, which was expected several days ago to reopen the Casino theater in La Belle park. The manager seems to have been lost.

This week's New York Dramatic Mirror contains an excellent picture of Miss Lillian Lancaster (Flora May Clark) on the front page. This popular Paducah girl has just reached New York, and has not yet signed for the season.

Mrs. A. H. Winfrey and daughter are visiting in Mayfield.

FARM MEMORIES

COME BACK IN FOOD.

How often a good appetite and a cracking good meal will bring back memories of old days on the farm! A mother says: "My eldest son, who has always had a weak stomach, was finally compelled to give up his position."

"I thought I could nurse him back to health and began feeding him Grape-Nuts for breakfast, and after a short time he formed such a liking for it that I concluded to give it to him for supper too."

"He wanted me to prepare it even oftener, but I did not do so, for I was afraid he would take a dislike to the food by getting too much of it and I felt certain it would help him if he would only continue its use."

"He began to pick up rapidly and now he is well and strong again and has gone back to business, and he holds with honor a position that is very trying to the brain. Only yesterday he said to me: 'Grape-Nuts has certainly done wonders for me; I would not pass a day without it, and it has such a fine taste too. It puts me in mind of how we used to enjoy food on the farm.'"

"I first saw Grape-Nuts at a luncheon one day at a friend's house, and as soon as I tasted it I formed a liking for it. My friend had formerly been sick, but now she lives almost entirely upon Grape-Nuts, and she is also building up a delicate little daughter upon the food, and the story she told me of what Grape-Nuts had done for both of them was certainly remarkable." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Senator Pettus' Cheap Seat.
Senator Pettus of Alabama the other day disproved the prevailing theory that all seats in the United States Senate are expensive and that that body is altogether a millionaire's club. He sent to the secretary of state of Alabama the sum of $1 in a postal note to cover the entire expenses for his recent unanimous election. This sum represents the fee of the secretary of state for his services. So far as known this is a record in the minimum price for seats in the Senate.

WILL RUN ANYHOW

Attorney Taylor, Unable to Win Contest, Not Beaten Yet.

He Does Not State Positively He Will Run—Mr. Lovett Talks.

Attorney L. K. Taylor of Paducah, who failed to win the contest for the Democratic nomination for commonwealth's attorney because there were only two votes in the judicial committee and he had but one, stated this morning that the primary election law makes no provision for carrying such contests any farther than the committee, and as he can not carry it into the courts, he practically has lost the contest, and Mr. Lovett will retain the certificate of nomination.

Attorney Taylor, however, has been urged by his friends to make the race for commonwealth's attorney on an independent ticket, and talks as if he will do it.

Money is being made up, it is understood, for prosecuting the persons who printed, had printed or deposited the bogus ballots, Attorney Lovett, before he left this morning is quoted as having said that he knows nothing of any bogus ballots, if any were used, and that his friends would certainly, if they wanted to engage in anything of the kind never have done it in his own county, where there was no necessity for him to get votes unfairly. The Heath precinct, the only one where bogus ballots were proven to have been cast, is Mr. Lovett's home precinct, in which he was born and raised, and he says it would be the last place anything of the kind would be necessary.

Mr. Lovett states, however, that no one is more ready or willing to help send the perpetrator of such frauds, if there were any, to the penitentiary, than he himself. That he knows nothing of any bogus ballots, and does not see how they could benefit him in his own county and home precinct, where he naturally would poll practically all the votes.

FIGHT PROWLERS

Mr. J. H. Mix's Home Invaded by Burglars.

Two Other Houses Entered, But Nothing Was Stolen.

Last night one burglary and two attempted burglaries were reported to the police.

The residence of Mr. Harry Mix at Fourth and Jones street was entered and two suits of clothes and a pair of pants stolen. Nothing else was missed. Entrance was gained through two rear doors, both being screen doors, which the burglars slit. The work was done while the family slept and no one was disturbed.

An attempt was made to burglarize the houses of Messrs. Meadows and Putman of near Seventh and Tennessee streets.

At the Meadows home a member of the family was asleep in the front room and was awakened during the night by a slight noise and on opening her eyes saw a negro standing at the foot of the bed. She screamed and the burglar fled without having taken anything. The woman did not see the features plainly and could not describe the man to the police.

The Putman residence fared about the same, the intruder being caught before he had a chance to secure anything. In this case the burglar was seen and proved to be a tall yellow negro. When he was discovered he fled, but was pursued part of the way by Mr. Putman, but outstripped the latter.

COULD NOT AGREE

Morrison and Edwards Adjourn
Their Meeting.

Democratic Judicial Committee Could
Come to No Understanding.

The Democratic judicial committee of this district composed of Chairman C. W. Morrison, of Paducah, and Chairman Edwards, of Marshall county, met at the Palmer house last night to take final action in the contest case of Attorney L. K. Taylor of Paducah against Nominee John G. Lovett, of Benton.

Mr. Morrison wanted the primary so far as it applied to the candidates for commonwealth's attorney, called off and another held, and offered as his reasons that the Democratic committee before the primary had not been sworn, that the name of the chairman of the committee was omitted from the ballots, and last, that flagrant frauds had been committed in Marshall county.

Chairman Edwards was willing to throw out the fraudulent ballots found in the Height precinct, but this would still leave Mr. Lovett a majority. He declined to vote for another primary and this left the matter where it was first, one committeeman voting for one thing and the other for another, and leaves Mr. Lovett still with the certificate of nomination.

Attorney Lovett, the Democratic nominee, returned to Benton this morning after having been here attending the contest meetings in which he figured so prominently. Mr. Lovett stated that he was not bothered in the least on any allegations that had been made and was satisfied with the standing of matters at present.

A WORM KILLER.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Paxico, Wayne county, Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls, who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them, which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them; the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 25c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

BLANCHE WALSH
GETS A DIVORCE

New York, August 8—Blanche F. Walsh the theatrical star, is at last a free woman. Justice Dugan in the supreme court signed the final decree of divorce in her favor in her suit against Alfred Hickman, an actor, to whom she was married at the Little Church Around the Corner in May, 1896. The suit was tried before a referee, and the proceedings were conducted with the utmost secrecy.

PHYSICIAN AND DRUGGISTS.

Ferd & Sturgeon, a prominent drug firm at Rocky Hill Station, Ky., writes: "We were requested by Dr. G. B. Snigley to send for Herbine for the benefit of our customers. We ordered three dozen in December, and we are glad to say Herbine has given such great satisfaction that we have duplicated this order three times, and today we gave your salesman another order. We beg to say Dr. G. B. Snigley takes pleasure in recommending Herbine." 50c bottle at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

EARLY DEPRAVITY.

"Kitty," said the governess, reproachfully, to the spoiled child whose art studies she was supervising, "why do you mix your blues and yellows in that wasteful manner?" "Oh, just for greens," replied Kitty.

WATCH FOR A CHILL.

However slight at this time of the year and in this climate, it is the forerunner of malaria. A disposition to yawn and an all-tired-out feeling even comes before the chill. Herbine, by its prompt stimulative action on the liver, drives the malarial germs out of the system, purifies the blood, tones up the system and restores health. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

DEALER WAS WISE.

ROUGH ON RATS

Colored Woman Takes Large Quantity of Poison.

Dr. D. T. Stuart Called to Attend Her —Will Recover Apparently.

Rosa Williams, wife of Tom Williams, the Legal Row janitor, of 1214 South Tenth street, took a box of rough on rats poison last night about 9:30 and came near dying from the effects before a physician could be summoned.

The woman had taken the poison half an hour before she let it be known and when she began to get sick told her husband what she had done. Dr. D. T. Stuart was summoned and worked with the patient several hours, apparently bringing her out of danger. She is still in a semi-conscious condition, however, and is unable to tell why she took the poison.

It was stated this morning that she had been having trouble over one of her boys and probably took the poison on this account.

Wichita, Kan., August 8—Word was received here to the effect that a large number of Oklahomans are making for the Wichita mountains, where the discovery of gold is causing almost as great excitement as did the discovery of the precious metal at Cripple creek several years ago.

One old miner disposed of two claims within the last two weeks, selling one for $80,000 and another for $10,000. Mills are being built and the necessary machinery for mining gold in large quantities is being brought into the country.

MURDERED WHILE ASLEEP

ONE NEGRO SHOT TWICE WHILE

Fulton, Ky., August 8—An unusually cold-blooded murder was perpetrated in the railroad camp here night before last. Henry Colley, of Hickman, was lying asleep in his tent, face downwards, when Henry Williams came in and shot him twice, once in the head and once in the back, either of which wounds would have proven fatal.

Williams then escaped. The only known cause for the tragedy was that the dead man had threatened the other's life. The murderer escaped.

OUTING SPOTS IN THE NORTHWEST

There are many places in the country of the Northern Pacific, some inexpensive, others better and more expensive, where one can spend the summer days pleasantly and healthfully. Among these are Walker in the Leech lake country, and Detroit and Battle Lake in the Lake Park region in Minnesota; Eaton's ranch, near Medora, S. D.; Hunter's Hot Springs in the Yellowstone valley, and Missoula and the Bitter-root valley in Montana; Lakes Pend d'Oreille and Couer d'Alene, Idaho; North Yakima in Eastern Washington, and Green River Hot Springs in the Cascades; Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Victoria on Puget Sound, and many places along the Columbia river and on the Pacific Ocean from Portland as a center.

Those east of the Mississippi who wish a decided change should go to the Rockies or the Puget Sound and Columbia river and sea coast country. We can only hint at these things here, but write us giving particulars as near as you can, and we will try to give you the needed information to enable you to find what you want. And don't forget that Yellowstone Park is the chief of all tourist shrines.

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

(Based Upon the Mystery Surrounding the Fate of the Dauphin, Son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette)

Copyright, 1901, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

"That signifies nothing. Plenty of white children have been brought up among the tribes. Chief Williams' grandmother, I have heard, was a Yankee woman."

Not one word of their rapid talk escaped an ear trained to faintest noises in the woods. I felt like a tree, well set up and sound, but rooted and voiceless in my ignorant helplessness before the two so frankly considering me.

My father, stopped when he saw Mme.
de Ferrier and called to me in French.
It was plain that he and Dr. Chantry disagreed. Skenedok, put out of counteenance by my behavior and the stubbornness of the chief, looked ready to lay his hand upon his mouth in sign of being confounded before white men, for his journey had altered none of his instincts.

But as for me I was as Dr. Chan-tray had said. Chief Williams' boy, faint from blood letting and twenty-four hours' fasting, and the father's command reminded me of the mother's chance. I stood up erect and drew the flowered silk robe around me. It could have been easier to walk on burning coals, but I felt obliged to return the look to Mme. de Ferrier. She would not take it. I closed her grasp upon it, and stooping, saluted her hand with courtesy as the Chamont had done. If he had dared, I must have done this deed. But all he did was to widen his eyes and strike his leg with his riding whip.

The chief pulled and I sat naked in our canoe—for we left the flowered robe
with a horse boy at the stables—the sun warmed upon my skin, the lake's blue glamour affecting me like enchantment.

Neither love nor aversion was associated with my father. I took my hand between my hands and tried to remember a face that was associated with aversion.

"Father," I inquired, "was anybody ever cruel to me?"
He looked startled, but spoke harshly.
"What have you got in your head?
These white people have been making a fool of you."

"I remember better today than I ever remembered before. I am different. I was a child, but today manhood has come. Father, what is a dauphin?"

"The chief made no answer."

"What is a temple? Is it a church, like ours at St. Regis?"

"Ask the priest."

"Do you know what Bourbon is,
father—particularly a Bourbon ear?"

"Nothing that concerns you."

"But how could I have a Bourbon ear if it didn't concern me?"

"Who said you had such an ear?"

"Mme. de Ferrier."

"The chief granted."

"At least she told De Chamont," I repeated exactly. "I was the boy she saw in London that her father said had all the traits of the Bourbons.
Where is London?"

The chief pulled without replying.
Finding him so ignorant on all points

was a fainting corpse, watch took me more than once afterward as suddenly as a blow on the head when my facilities were most needed. Whether this was caused by the plunge upon the rock or the thin life from which I had emerged I do not know. One moment I saw the children and mothers from the neighboring lodges more interested than my own mother, air smoky rafters and the fire pit in the center of unclean ground, my clothes hanging over the bunk, and even a dog with his nose in the kettle. And then as it had been the night before,
I waked after many hours.

If Skenedok had been there I would have asked him to bring me water, with confidence in his natural service.
The chief's family was a large one,
but not one of my brothers and sisters seemed as near to me as Skenedok.
The apathy of fraternal attachment never caused me any pain. The whole tribe was held dear.

I stripped off Dr. Chantry's unendurable bandages, and put on my clothes, for there were blankets along the path. The lodges and the dogs were still, and I crept like a hunter after game, to avoid waking them.
Our village was an irregular camp,
each house standing where its owner had pleased to build it on the lake shore. Behind it the blackness of wooded wilderness seemed to stretch to the end of the world.

The spring made a distinct tinkle in the rush of low sounds through the forest. It was fine to wallow, damaging the span of escaping water with my fevered head. Physical relief and delicious slumbering coolness ran through me.

From that wet pillow I looked up and thought again of what had happened that day, and particularly of the girl whom the Chamont had called Mme. de Ferrier and Eagle.
Every word that she had spoken passed again before my mind. Possibilities that I had never imagined rayed out from my recumbent body as from the hub of a vast wheel. I was white. I was not an Indian. I had a Bourbon ear. She believed I was a dauphin. What was a dauphin, that she should make such a deo obseance to it? My father, the chief, recommending me to the squaws, and appeared to know nothing about it.

All that she believed De Chamont denied. The rich book which stirred such torment in me—"you know it was his mother's," she said—De Chamont thought I merely coveted. I can see now that the crude, half savage boy wallowing in the spring stream, so that woman as high as the highest star above his head, and made her the hope and symbol of his possible best.

A woman's long cry, like the appeal of that one on whom he meditated, echoed through the woods and startled him out of his wallow.

CHAPTER III.

I SAT up with the water trickling down my back. The cry was repeated, out of the west.

I knew the woods, but night alters the most familiar places. I made directly toward the woman's voice, which guided me more plainly, but left off running as my ear detected that she was only in perplexity. She called at intervals, imperatively, but not in continuous screams. She was a white woman, for no squaw would publish her discomfort.

Climbing over rocks and windfalls I came against a solid log wall and heard the woman talking in a very pretty chatter the other side of it. She only left off talking to call for help, and left off calling for help to scold and laugh again. There was a man imprisoned with her, and they were speaking English, a language I did not then understand. But what had happened to them was very plain. They had wandered into a pen built by hunters to trap bears and could not find the latch unlocked and winding opening, but were traveling around the walls.

I found my way to the opening and whistled. At once the woman ceased her chatter and drew in her breath, and they both asked me a question that needed no interpretation. I told them where they were, and the woman began talking at once in my own tongue and spoke it as well as I could myself.

"In a bear pen? George, he says we are in a bear pen! Take us out, dear chief, before the bear family arrive home from their hunt. I don't know whether you are a chief or not, but most Indians are. My nurse was a chief's daughter. Where are you? I can't see anything but hunks of blackness."

I took her horse by the bridle and led him and so got both the riders out side. They had no tinder, and neither had I, and all of us groped for the way by which they had come to the bear pen. The young man spurred his horse in every direction and turned back inable to get through.

Though we could not see one another,
I knew that both the adventurers were young and that they expected to be called to severe account for the lawless act they were committing. The girl, talking English or French or Mohawk almost in one breath, took the blame upon herself and made light of the boy's self reproaches.

She laughed and said, "My father thinks I am with Miss Chantry, and Miss Chantry thinks I am with my father. He will blame her for letting me ride with George Croghan to meet him and lose the way and so get into the bear pen. And she will blame my father, and you dearer Annabel will let the Count de Chamont and Miss Chantry fight it out. It is not an affair for youth to meddle with,
George."

Having her for interpreter the boy and I consulted. I might have led him back to our hunting camp, but it was a hard road for a woman and an impossible one for horses. There was no inhabited house nearer than De Chaumont's own. He decided they must retrout to the road by which they had come into the bear pen, and gladly accepted my offer to go with him; dis-mounting and leading Annabel de Chamont's horse while I led his. We passed over rotten logs and through black tangles, the girl bending to her saddle bow, unwearied and full of laughter. It was plain that he could not find any outlet, and falling behind with the lumbered horse he let me guide the party.

I do not know by what instinct I felt my way, conscious of slipping between the wild citizens of that vast town of trees. But we finally reached a clearing and saw across the open space a lighted cabin. Its sashless windows and defective chimneys were glided with the yellow light that comes from a glowing hearth.

"I know this place!" exclaimed Annabel. "It is where the Saint-Michels used to live before they went to my father's settlement at Le Rayville.
George, why don't you go and knock on the door?"

It was not necessary, for the door opened and a man appeared, holding his violin by the neck. He stepped out to look around the cabin at some horses fastened there, and saw and balled us.

I was not sorry to be allowed to enter, for I was tired to exhaustion and sat down on the floor away from the fire. The man looked at me suspiciously, though he was rudely and good natured, but he bent quite over before De Chamont's daughter and made a flourish with his hand in receiving young Croghan. There were in the cabin with him two women and two little girls, and a Canadian servant
like a fat brown bear came from the rear of the house to look at us and then went back to the horses.

All the women began to speak, but Annabel de Chamont could talk faster than the four others combined;
so they knew our plight before we learned that they were the Grignon and Tank families, who were going into the west to find settlement and had made the house their camp for one night. The Dutch maid, dark and round eyed, and the dexter little Gri-gon had respect for their elders and held their tongues while Mme. Tank and Mme. Grignon spoke, but Annabel de Chamont was like a grove of sparrows. The world seemed swarming with young maids. The travelers were mere children, while the count's daughter was starting as an angel.

Her clothing fitted her body like an exquisite sheath. I do not know what it was, but it made her look as slim as a dragon fly. Her white and rose-pink face had a high arched nose, and was proud and saucy. She wore her hair bented out like mist, with rich curly shreds hanging in front of her ears to her shoulders. She shook her head to set her hat straight, and turned her eyes in rapid smiling sweeps. I knew as well then as I ever did afterward that she was bound to befool every man that came near her.

There were only two benches in the cabin, but it was floored and better made than our hunting lodges. The temporary inmates and their guests sat down in a long row before the fire. I was glad to make a pillow of a saddle near the wall, and watch their backs, as an outsider. Mme. de Chamont absented all eyes and all attention. She told about a ball, to which she had ridden with her governess and servants in three days' journey and from which all the dancers were riding back in three days' journey to join in another ball at her father's house. With the hospitality which made Le Ray de Chamont's manor the palace of the wilderness as it existed then, she invited the hosts who sheltered her for the night to come to the ball and stay all summer. And they lamented that they could not accept the invitation, being obliged to hurry on to Albany,
where a larger party would give them escort on a long westward journey.

The head of the house took up his bow, as if musing on the ball, and Annabel de Chamont wriggled her feet faster and faster. Tireless as this disturbance that rolls here and there at the will of the wind, up the strings and began to dance. The children watched her spellbound. I sat up to watch her, and she noticed me for the first time
by fright.

"Look at that boy! He has been hurt
—the blood is running down his cheeks!"
she cried. "I thought he was an Indian—and he is white!"

I wanted the women to leave me alone, and told them my head had been hurt two days before and was nearly well. The mothers, too keen to wash and tendage to let me escape, opened a saddle-pack and tore good linen.

George Croghan stood by the chimney, seen and tall and handsome. His head and face were long, his hair was
of a sunny color and his mouth corners were shrewd and good natured. I liked him the moment I saw him.
Younger in years than I, he was older in wit and mainly carriage. While he looked on it was hard to have Mme.
Tank seize my head in her hands and examine my eyebrow. She next took my wrists, and, not satisfied, stripped up the right sleeve and exposed a crescent shaped scar, one of the rare ones elation marks of those days. I did not know what it was. Her animated dark eyes drew the brows together so that a pucker came between them. I looked at Croghan and wanted to exclaim: "Help yourself! Anybody may handle me!"

"Fussle Grignon!" she said sharply, and Mme. Grignon answered:

"Eh, what, Katarina?"

"This is the boy."

"But what boy?"

"The boy I saw on the ship."

"The one who was sent to America?"— Mme. Tank put up her hand, and the other stopped.

"But that was a child," Mme. Gri-gon then objected.

"Nine years ago. He would be about eighteen now."

"How old are you?" they both put to me.

Remembering what my father had told Dr. Chantry, I was obliged to own that I was about eighteen. Annabel de Chamont sat on the lowest log of the chimney with her feet on a bench and her chin in her hand, interested to the point of silence. Something in her eyes made it very galling to be over-

"Gracie Grignon!" she said sharply, lauded and have my blanches enumerated before her and Croghan.
What had afflicted me to Mme. de Fer-rier's recognition now mocked, and I found it hard to submit. It would not go well with the next stranger who declared he knew me by my scars.

"What do they call you in this country?" inquired Mme. Tank.

I said my name was Lazarre Wil-lams.

"It is not!" she said in an under-tone, shaking her head.

I made bold to ask with some warmth what my name was then, and she whispered, "Poor child!"

It seemed that I was to be pitted in any case. In dim self knowledge I saw that the core of my resentment was her treating me with commiseration.
Mme. de Ferrier had not treated me so.

"You live among the Indians?" Mme.
Tank resumed.

The fact was evident.

"Have they been kind to you?"

I said they had.

Mme. Tank's young daughter edged near her and inquired in a whisper:

"Who is he, mother?"

"Hush!" answered Mme. Tank.

The head of the party laid down his violin and bow, and explained to us:

"Mme. Tank was mild of honor to the queen of Holland before reverses overtaken her. She knows court secrets."

"But she might at least tell us," coaxed Annabel, "if this Mohawk is a Dutchman."

Mme. Tank said nothing.

"What could happen in the court of Holland? The Dutch are slow coaches.
I saw the Van Rensselaers once, near Albany, riding in a wagon with straw under their feet, on common chairs, the old patroon himself driving. This boy is some offscouring."

"He outranks you, mademoiselle," retorted Mme. Tank.

"That's what I wanted to find out,"
said Annabel.

I kept half an eye on Croghan to see what he thought of all this woman talk. For you cannot help being more dominated by the opinion of your contemporaries than by that of the fore-running or following generation. He held his countenance in excellent command, and did not meddle even by a word. You could be sure, however, that he was no credulous person who accepted everything. As was said to him.

Mme. Tank bowed into the reddened displacement to begin to speak, but hesi-tated. The white thing was weird, like a dream issuing from the end of my head—the strange, white faces, the red and white saddlebags imposed on the horses, the light on the coarse floor, the children listening us to a ghost story, Mme. de Chamont presiding over it all. The cabin had an arched roof and no loft. The top was full of shadows.

"If you are the boy I take you to be,"
Mme. Tank finally said, sinking her voice, "you may find you have enemies."

"If I am the boy you take me to be, madame, who am I?"
She shook her head.
